ELECTORAL SYSTEM SHOULD BE REVISED

Final election statistics reveal that President Truman won his bid for the White House with less than a majority vote. His total was 49.5 percent of all votes cast. That was better than Woodrow Wilson did in 1912 when he received only 42 percent of the total vote, but still won the election.

There have been other minority presidents. In 1864 Andrew Jackson led his nearest opponent by 60,000 votes out of 460,000 cast. The election was thrown into the House and John Quincy Adams was chosen president.

The famous Tilden-Hayes case developed in 1876. Hayes received 264,000 fewer votes than Tilden, but had a majority of one electoral vote. In 1888 Cleveland led by 400,000 out of 12 million votes cast, but Benjamin Harrison won the electoral vote.

In the recent election Mr. Truman won more votes than any of his opponents. He simply fell short of a majority.

There is a way to put an end to this situation. A Joint Senate Resolution (No. 200) was introduced at the last session of Congress by Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, a Massachusetts Republican, and Rep. Ed Gossett, Texas Democrat. It proposes a constitutional amendment to provide that in electing the president and vice-president of the United States the electoral vote be counted in proportion to the popular vote.

In Illinois, for instance, where Mr. Truman received some 34,000 votes more than Governor Dewey, the electoral vote under the proposed plan would go to Truman and 13 to Dewey instead of all 28 to Truman as was the case in this election.

The proposal would abolish the electoral college but retain the electoral vote.

Aside from eliminating the possibility of electing a minority president or throwing the selection into the House, the proposed amendment would break down the state domination of a party in the key cities. It also would encourage activity on the part of minority parties in states formerly dominated by a single party. It would make the state origin of a presidential candidate less important.

But, above all, it would make the election of a president more democratic. Some such amendment is worthy of approval by the new congress and ratification by the states.

State Construction
Here May Reach Six
Million In 2 Years

A detailed study of the proposed 1949-51 biennium budget for the Illinois Department of Welfare shows that between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 is sought for construction of new facilities at the three state institutions in Jacksonville.

Additional buildings planned at the state hospital would make the local institution one of the largest in the middlewest.

The department prepared a $209,232,000 budget, more than double its current total appropriations, at its meeting Monday in Springfield. The biennium starts July 1.

The department asked for a $2,675,000 appropriation for new construction at the Jacksonville state hospital, including $350,000 for a 100 bed addition to the tuberculosis hospital and $2,325,000 for "other construction."

A $2,007,000 appropriation was asked for construction work at the Illinois School for the Deaf and $730,000 at the Illinois School for the Blind, improvements which the department termed as "absolute need for the coming biennium."

School for the Deaf projects were listed as: Construction of a $415,000 vocational building; $415,000, 50 bed infirmary, including fixed equipment; construction of general kitchen, dining room and bakery building, including fixed equipment with storeroom facilities in basement, costing $665,000; rehabilitating and fireproofing main building $113,000, and a new $400,000 dormitory unit for nursery and kindergarten children.

School for Blind projects were listed as: Completion of a new auditorium, $100,000; rehabilitation and fireproofing of main buildings to include two new fireproof stairwells, installation of an elevator and complete rewiring of the building, $135,000; chain grate, stokers, bunkers and coal handling equipment in the power plant, $95,000, and $400,000 new braille library building.

The new officers are Fred Goodey, president; Bert Whitlock, vice president; and Mrs. Robert Ray, secretary-treasurer.

Following the supper, at which winners of the year's attendance contest were feted by the losers, Christmas carols were sung by the group. R. E. May, pastor of the Berea Christian church and a former teacher of the class, was the speaker of the evening.

Donations voted during the business session, which was conducted by Don Hamey, were $50 to the Crusade for a Christian World and $25 to the tablecloth fund for the church. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Darwin Ronet.

A gift exchange took place among members. The prize for the most original home-made Christmas tree decoration was awarded Mrs. Whitlock. Decorations in keeping with the holiday season, featured paper nutcrackers made to resemble candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Vernon were co-chairmen of the committee in charge.

The seven Jacksonville high school students who were injured in an automobile accident last Friday night are reported to be making satisfactory progress toward recovery. Four of the students are still hospitalized.

Keota Stevens, who sustained a fracture of the transverse processes of the first, second, third and fourth lumbar vertebra, was the most seriously injured. Her condition has been described by hospital authorities as good.

The other three students still at Passavant hospital are Darrell Steinhilber, who suffered a fractured right ankle, and Charles Grant and Nancy Due, both of whom sustained extensive cuts and bruises.

Berwyn Stillflew, who was driving the 1949 Kaiser at the time it overturned, and Bob Brown and Dick Grunz, also passengers in the car, sustained only minor injuries.

Boyle's Column

An Example Of A Man Being
Strangled By Red Tape

By Hal Boyle
New York—(AP)—The poor man's philosopher views the news:

A symbol of our confused times is Giovanni Villa, the living dead man of Palermo, Sicily.

Poor Giovanni at 35 is a prime example of how a man can actually be strangled by the red tape of government. Through some mishap he was legally declared dead in 1944 in a small village he never had visited.

For four years Giovanni has waged a one-man campaign to convince the government it was wrong. But red tape is hard to reverse, in sunny Sicily as elsewhere.

Won't Register His Daughter
With a fine consistency, the government not only has refused to concede Giovanni's existence. It has also declined to register his daughter, born recently, on the medically justifiable grounds that "dead men can't father children."

The only consolation Giovanni has is that the tax collector has graciously consented to let him continue to pay his tax bills.

But it would seem the "ghost man of Palermo" is overlooking a sure bet to become one of mankind's lasting heroes. Instead of continuing servility to pay taxes to support an administration that lists him as dead, Giovanni should strike an historic blow against all government nonsense.

Could Wipe Out Government
Why couldn't Giovanni go to the Palermo city hall some morning with a machine gun and destroy the whole regime. He couldn't very well be punished, as a man legally dead and held incapable of fatherhood could hardly be charged with murder.

What an opportunity happy Giovanni! He could go on placidly wiping out administration after administration until some scared official agreed to bring him back to life and grant him a pension the rest of his days.

But what does Giovanni do? He merely keeps on paying taxes. So far has Sicily, home of the vengeance vendetta, fallen from its golden days.

A London newspaper says that eight of every ten horses sold in Britain today ends up on a steak platter in a black market restaurant. The paper dolefully observes that some of the island's finest draft breeds may be eaten out of existence.

There is an old prejudice in America against consuming man's second best friend. But in Europe, particularly France, horseflesh is esteemed by many as a delicacy. It is rich and flavorful. Doctors often prescribe it for victims of anemia.

But here, except in cases where shady operators sometimes blend faithful Dobbin into beef hamburger, without horses usually wind up on a zoo bill of fare or in canned dog food.

One man once found a double military use for the horse, employing him as both mount and menu. The cavalry troops of Genghis Khan, 13th century Asiatic conqueror, customarily on long marches opened the veins of their ponies and drank their blood when food supplies were short.

It's a good argument for "C" rations.

MYERS BROTHERS SHOE SALON

Jerseyville Boy Hit By Bullet While At Play

Jerseyville—John Harley, Jersey Township high school student, underwent surgery at the Boyd Memorial hospital in Carrollton Tuesday morning for the removal of a rifle bullet from one of his arms.

Harley was hit by the missile while he was playing on a neighborhood basketball court Sunday afternoon. Two local youths are under arrest on city warrants charging them with discharging firearms inside the city limits.

X-Ray examination at a local physician's office revealed the bullet lodged against a bone in the arm and the removal of the bullet was advised.

The youths under arrest told Chief of Police Hanson they were shooting at pigeons flying about the elevator in the local railroad yards and that one of the shots must have ricocheted.

Model Railroad Display Has Drive-In Theater

It has taken 20 years to build but John Karalla's model railroad display is his pride and joy. Karalla, a Cleveland, O., hospital maintenance superintendent, houses his toy town on an over-size table tennis table in his basement. Besides the trains, he has built a working drive-in theater, lower right, with a handkerchief for the screen. The buildings are made of pasteboard, the trees of bits of Christmas trees, the streets and sidewalks are sandpaper, the lawns Turkish towels, the shrubs green-dyed sponge, and the letters on the billboards are made from alphabet noodles. The display is completely electrified, with lights in all buildings. Note the airplanes overhead. (Photo by Flash Findlay.)

Waltz into Darkness

XLI

SUDDENLY she had turned, thrown herself toward him. He hadn't known the human form could move so quickly. But she was so deft, she was so small. Her hand flashed out, a white missile before his face. The tumbler was gone from his grasp. Glass rattled on the floor somewhere offside beyond his ken.

Her face seemed to melt into shapeless weeping lines, like a face seen through rain running down a pane. She caught him by her convulsively, crushing his face against her soft breast. He hadn't known her embrace could hold that much strength. She'd never loved him enough to exert it to the full before.

"Oh, merciful God," she cried out wildly. "Look down and forgive me! Stop this terrible thing, turn it back, undo it! Lou, my Lou! Only now I see it! Oh, my eyes are open, open now at last! What have I done?"

Her sobbing had the wild, panting turbulence of a child's, strangling her words, rendering her almost incoherent.

"I must have been mad— Out of my mind— How could I have listened to such a scheme? But when I was with him, I saw only him, never you— He brought out that old bad self in me— He made wrong things seem right, or just something to snicker at—"

Her fingers, pleading, traced the outlines of his face; trembling, felt of his lips, of his lidded eyes, as if seeking to restore them to what they had been.

Then suddenly her weeping stopped.

HER head came up. She was bated, she was watchful, she was crafty. Of what he could not tell. She turned and looked behind her at the window, in dreadful secretive apprehension.

"Nobody shall take you from me," she said through clenched teeth. "I'll not give you up. Not for anyone. It's not too late, it's not! I'm going to get you out of here, where you'll be safe— Hurry, get your things. We'll go together. I have the strength for the two of us. You're going to live. Do you hear me, Lou? You're going to live—yet."

She sidled up beside the window, creeping along the wall until she had gained an outer edge of it, then peered narrowly out, using the slit between curtain edge and wall.

"What is it?" he whispered. "Who's out there?"

She didn't answer. Suddenly she drew her head back sharply, as if fearful she had been detected just then from the outside.

"Shall I put out the lamp?" he asked.

"No!" She motioned to him horrified. "For heaven's sake, not! I was to have done that. It will be taken for a signal that—it's over. Our only chance is to go now, and leave it still on, as if—as if we were here yet."

She came running back to him, yet not forgetting even as she did so to throw still another backward glance of dread at the window; she settled down beside him with a billowing-out of her dress, took hold of his untended foot, raised it, while he still strove valiantly with the first.

"Quickly, your other shoe! There, that's all— No time for more."

She helped him quit his sitting position on the edge of the bed, held him upright on his feet beside her.

"Lean on me, I'll help you. There! There! Move your feet, that's it! Oh, Lou, try!"

SHE struggled heroically with him, as though she were the spirit of life itself, contesting with the spirit of death that sought to possess him. Now holding him back when he inclined too far forward, now drawing him on when he swayed too far backward. Out the room door and along the upper hall. Down the stairs cautiously, step by mincing step, she maintaining precarious balance for two.

As they neared the bottom of the endless staircase, were within one last step of it, she suddenly stopped, frozen. And in the silence, over the rise and fall of their two breaths, they both heard it.

There was a low, urgent tapping going on against the front door. Very stealthily it was, very secretive. Meant only to be caught by a single pair of ears, no other. A pair forewarned to expect it, to listen for it. Two fingers at the most, perhaps only one, kept striking at the woodwork.

A peculiar whistle sounded with it. Also modulated very low, very guarded. Little more than a stirring of the breath against a wavering upper lip. Plaintive, melancholy, like the sound of a baby owl. Or a lost wisp of night wind trying to find its way in.

It was intermittent. It waited. Then sounded again. Waited. Sounded again.

"Sh, don't make any noise!" He could feel her arms tighten protectively about him. As if instinctively seeking to safeguard him against something. Something that she understood, knew the meaning of, he didn't. "The back way," she breathed. "We'll have to go out by there— Hold your breath, love. For the love of heaven, don't make a sound or—we'll both be dead in here where we stand."

Cautiously, straining against one another, as much now to insure their mutual silence as before now it had been to maintain his uprightness, they quitted the stairs, crept rearward on the lower floor, into the dining room, then on into the unlighted kitchen beyond.

He heard a bolt scrape softly back beneath her diligently groping fingers. Then a door moved inward, and the coolness of escape was grateful in their faces.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

The Missus "Ducks" Out

Slim Hartman took his missus duck hunting the other day. And after five hours of sitting in a swamp, she'd had enough! Going home, Slim reminded her good-naturedly of the time she'd taken him to a woman novelist's lecture, and insisted that he sit it out.

So now the missus and Slim have an understanding. No more duck hunting for her—no more lectures for him. They decided each to his own taste.

It's because they can agree to disagree like that, I think, that Slim and the missus get on so well—content to stay home nights together, enjoying one another's company over a glass of beer and a game of chess.

From where I sit, we can't all enjoy the same things—but we can share those little pleasures that we do enjoy—a glass of beer, a game of chess, some music on the radio—and live-and-let-live when it comes to the others.

AFTER 20,000 miles or more of hard driving, even the best clutch needs a going over to keep it smooth. Worn facings or facings that are loose on the face plate can make a clutch chatter like a school-girl.

If miles and miles of service have made your Buick's clutch too "talkative," we'll bring it back to new-car dependability and quietness with Buick methods and Buick factory-engineered parts.

Whatever work we do on your car, you can count on us for real Buick service and factory-engineered Buick parts. That's the combination that keeps your Buick always a Buick.

Mental Draft Dodgers Try Right Wrong Answers To Outfox Experts In Psychiatric Quiz Show

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—You've got to be a "polished liar" to avoid the draft by flunking the Army's mental and psychiatric tests on purpose.

Nevertheless it appears to be nip and tuck these days between the government's mental experts and the new draftees as to who outfoxes whom in the psychiatric department.

Many state draft officials recently meeting in Washington admitted that some of the men being examined are double-talking their way out of uniform by giving the right wrong answers to the mental stability questions.

Just what these questions are—some written and some oral—is top secret. And that's been part of the problem, keeping them secret. There have been eight major revisions of the standard test since 1940, partly for this reason.

The question arises as to whether the questions can be changed enough to fool the men any more. Millions of men have taken these tests during the past eight years and a lot of information has gotten out as to their general technique and intent.

Within a few months another brand new test will be brought into use. It is supposed to be the best combination of everything the Air Force, Navy and Army have learned about mental examinations and intelligence tests.

This new test will put special emphasis on a man's ability to visualize objects in space. A typical question will show a flat diagram with dotted lines. The problem is to describe the shape of the object which would result from folding the diagram along the dotted lines. The new test will also attach greater importance to a man's job experience in attempting to classify him for service.

Draftees get a few words of wisdom from the sergeant before they face the mental exams and intelligence tests in an Army quiz show in which the experts try to keep from being outfoxed.

The same general test and psychiatric interview is given to both draftees and men who enlist.

The big difficulty for the man trying to fail is that he can't tell which are the hard questions and which are the easy ones. Varying degrees of difficult ones and extremely simple ones, disguised as to their relative simplicity, are scattered through the tests. When a man answers four or five of the easy ones, it is obvious to the scorer that the man has tried to fail.

Those who are caught trying to fail are given a special interview to determine whether they are worth forcing into service. If it can be proved that they deliberately tried to fail the tests, they can be prosecuted.

One reason an increasing number of draftees may be able to falsify their tests is the lack of trained examiners. On some of the tests it takes a pretty shrewd psychologist to detect inconsistencies.

The Army isn't so desperate for young men that this method of dodging the draft will make any difference to their manpower needs.

As one Army official points out, any man who would go to that extent to keep out of service probably wouldn't make a soldier worth training, anyway. It is a deliberate attempt to violate the law, however, and the Army promises that every effort will be made to punish offenders.

Freesen-Albright Vows Exchanged At Bluffs Church

Bluffs.—In a lovely wedding ceremony performed Sunday afternoon, Dec. 12, in the Bluffs Methodist church at 2 o'clock, Miss Alice Jane Albright became the bride of Robert Freesen Jr., Rev. Kenneth Douglas using the double ring service.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Margaret Watson played several appropriate selections and Mrs. Kenneth Douglas sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." During the service Mrs. Douglas sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March. She wore a bridal gown of heavy white satin made en train. The head work on the shirred bodice matched the tulle of seed pearls to which was attached her fingertip veil of illusion tulle. The long sleeves came to points over her wrists. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a white Bible topped with a corsage of baby orchids and showered with tiny mums and baby's breath.

Attended By Sister
The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Ruth Smith, who wore a gown of blue faille with black accessories. She had a halo of pink carnations for her hair and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and pink roses tied with pink satin.

The groom was attended by his brother Leroy. The vows were received before the altar banked with palms, ferns, candelabra and a large basket of white mums and carnations. Poinsettias were used on either side of the latter. The ushers were Robert and Irvin Albright, brothers of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits, the groom, grey, and his groomsmen, brown, with white carnation boutonnières.

Mrs. Freesen is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Albright and graduated from Bluffs High school with the class of 1948. Mr. Freesen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Freesen. He graduated from the Bluffs schools and for several months was in the service of his country and is now engaged in construction work with his brother Leroy. They will reside in Bluffs upon return from a wedding trip through the south.

Many Attend Reception
Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the members of the wedding party and relatives. Refreshments of cake and brick ice cream with wedding bells in the center and coffee were served by Mrs. Wilson Barrow, Mrs. Oscar Freesen, Mrs. Arch Brown, Mrs. Robert Albright, Mrs. Irvin Albright, Frank Brown and Mrs. Albright.

Guests at the reception included Irvin J. Albright of Joplin, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. George Bandreau, Quincy; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vortman, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Barrow, Miss Roberta Barrow, Mrs. R. W. Reversible-pitch propellers that act as "brakes" enable the smoke-trailing Douglas DC-4 plane above to make a sudden, fast, safe landing. Ways to Save

If you were a native of Tanakombo in the South Pacific you would practice thrift by saving banana leaf bundles of sago "pudding"... the pulp-like core of the sago palm which has been beaten into a thick mush. There is a ready native market for sago pudding because it will keep indefinitely even in tropical climate, and can be baked into cakes or made into a soup by adding water.

That's the nice thing about practicing thrift at Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association, too. Your savings will "keep" indefinitely, and they are always ready in case of need. The best part of all tho, is the way they earn a profit, merely by being saved. Stop in and let us explain.

Murakowski, Stuart Pull Best Football Plays Of 1948 Season

New York, Dec. 15 — (P) — Either Art Murakowski of Northwestern or Bobby Stuart of Army pulled the most electrifying play of the 1948 football season, depending upon which expert does the voting.

Stuart's show piece was a thrilling 103-yard return of a kickoff against Penn at Philadelphia, in which he went through or around the entire Quaker team to score a vital touchdown. That was the sizzler which the cadets finally pulled out by 26-20 in the last 35 seconds.

Murakowski produced his gem in the second half of the Northwestern-Notre Dame classic, when he plucked an Irish pass out of the air and tore 90 yards down the sideline to put the Wildcats in front 7-6. That Notre Dame rallied to win did not detract from Murakowski's valiant effort.

More than half the sports writers who participated in the annual Associated Press poll to pick the most spectacular play of the recent campaign voted either for Stuart or Murakowski, with opinion about evenly divided.

Running third for the distinction was a play in the same game in which Stuart made his run. That was when Arnold Galiffa, Army quarterback and passer, shot a pass to end John Trent in the end zone in the last 35 seconds to win the contest and keep the cadets undefeated.

From the southwest came a solid block of votes for a whole series of breathless plays by Gil Johnson, peerless passer of Southern Methodist. Johnson displayed a rare talent for the dramatic.

He brought the Mustangs from behind in the final 15 seconds with a scoring pass to defeat Arkansas. Then again, in the Pontiac climactic struggle with Texas Christian, he passed and ran for 99 yards in four plays to tie the count 7-7 just as time ran out.

Nick Bulkovic of Pittsburgh was singled out by a dozen voters for his pass interception and 23-yard touchdown run that removed Penn State.

Grabs Cage Tilt

From David Prince

Spike Wilson's ISD grade school cage crew brought a David Prince team's four game winning streak to a halt last night when they annexed a 29 to 24 win from Merle Wade's

Jacks on the westward bounds.

The all DP hoopers jumped in to an early lead after the tip-off, leading ISD 12 to 5 at the end of the first quarter and holding a 16 to 8 edge at halftime. The Little Tigers came roaring back after the intermission, however, and in a three period rally, which saw them count 14 tallies, they grabbed a 23 to 18 lead. Both outfits scored six points in the last canto to give the host school a 29 to 24 win; their fourth straight for the season.

The deaf grade basketreers have previously whipped Mercedia, the Blind and Our Saviour's grade school fives.

In the preliminary a much bigger David Prince reserve crew tamped the Jr. ISD grade varsity by a 51 to 8 count.

'Fine' Idea Costs

Philadelphia Dec. 15 — (P) — James McCune figured out a way to beat those fast-starting trolley cars away from intersections.

That stopped the trolley for a while and McCune, too, who was hailed by the magistrate E. David Kesler.

The magistrate agreed it was "fine" idea—and that the fine would be $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Losses were small but there were enough to lower the general price level. A large number of shares remained at the previous close and some edged ahead.

Business was comparatively slow, with turnover at a rate which would bring the day's total to below the 1,000,000 share mark for the first time in several weeks.

Neither buyers nor sellers were in any rush to take a stand in the market. Operations were largely professional as speculative or investment buying tended to balance year-end tax selling. Switching transactions accounted for much of the day's business.

Many traders simply stood by and waited for the first signs of the late December rally which so many expect.

Decca Records made frequent appearances on the ticker tape at slightly higher prices. Plymouth Oil responded to news from the oilfields for a while but had trouble staying on the plus side.

Lower most of the day were Chrysler, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Schenley, Union Carbide, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (N. J.), and Texas Co.

Steadier stocks included U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, DuPont, and Pennsylvania R.R.

GRAINS SAG; FEAR REDUCTION IN ECA APPROPRIATION

Chicago, Dec. 15 — (P) — Grains slid lower on the Board of Trade today. At times December wheat and corn showed some firmness, but before the close even these deliveries had lost most or all their gains. Soybeans fell a few cents at one time and lard ended.

Chief factor causing buyers to shy away from the market, traders said, was the charge of misuse of Economic Cooperation Administration funds by three European nations.

Traders thought this might cause Congress to reduce appropriations for further recovery aid.

Trade was moderate in wheat and corn, but again was active in soybeans. Soybean volume yesterday exceeded that of both wheat and corn.

Receipts were: Wheat 7 cars, corn 134, oats 8 and soybeans 8.

Wheat closed 1-1/2 lower, December $2.37 1/2, corn was 1-1/2 lower, December $1.41 1/2, oats were 1-1/2 lower, December $2.75, rye was 1-1/2 lower, December $1.72, soybeans were 2 cents lower to 2 1/2 higher, December $2.59-$2.57 1/2, and lard was 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, December $17.10.

Louis Continues Tour As Heavies Vie For Position

New York, Dec. 15 — (P) — While the contenders are maneuvering around to get—or get out of—a June shot with Joe Louis, the heavy-weight champion is going his merry way on a very lucrative exhibition tour.

The Brown Bomber stopped off here today to rest up. Tomorrow night he appears against Big Pat Coniskey of Paterson, N. J., in a six-round exhibition at the Paterson armory.

Louis started his current tour, which has netted him over $100,000, against Comiskey in Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.

Since then the champ has performed in 15 other cities. After the Paterson show he will wind up the '48 jumbo Dec. 20 at Lewistown, Me., against one Willie James.

The Lewistown date is to make up for the champ's cancellation of a Nov. 5 exhibition there. A heavy cold forced the bomber to withdraw and it broke a Louis record. It was the only fight he has called off in 13 years.

Marshall Miles, manager of Louis, and Harry Mendel, who booked the champ's tour, said Louis boxed before 125,000 fans in his tour of the country.

Miles said Louis plans to spend the Christmas holidays in Chicago with his wife, Marva, and their two children, Jacqueline and little Joe. He may go out to California to see the Rose Bowl game, and then more work.

So far Mendel has lined up nine U. S. cities for 1949 exhibitions.

Round-Robin To Pick Challenger

Gets Louis' OK

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 — (P) — Joe Louis put his official sanction today on a round-robin tournament to pick a challenger for his heavy-weight title.

Joe listed six names: Lee Savold, Billy Conn, Gus Lesnevich, Bruce Woodcock, Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Then he said the round-robin shouldn't have more than four contenders. He was inclined to drop Lesnevich and Woodcock.

It was the first time since he knocked out Walcott in the 11th round of their second bout last June that he mentioned Jersey Joe as a potential challenger for a third time.

At Camden, N. J., Walcott said he felt he was still the No. 1 challenger for Louis' title.

"I feel I won one and lost one and should have another shot at the title," he said. "I'm ready to meet anyone who thinks he can knock me from the No. 1 spot."

Louis, toyed with Arturo Godoy in a six-round exhibition bout at convention hall last night.

Elliott States He Will Put Gambling

Out Of Illinois

Chicago, Dec. 15 — (P) — Ivan A. Elliott, Illinois attorney general-elect, today said, "Gambling is out—and if local officials allow it the attorney general's office won't shirk its responsibility to enforce the law."

Elliott, who will be inaugurated Jan. 10, told the Illinois State Attorneys Association that he had "no rules. But you can read the statutes as well as I."

"And I want you to know I intend to fulfill my obligations to enforce all of the laws on the books."

He added, "I was approached by the gamblers when I was state's attorney of White County. I didn't take their money."

"If I had, I wouldn't be here as attorney general today, because that had money does something to you. It ruins you morally and physically."

"Besides the good people will always catch up with you, and they are the ones you have to have on your side to be elected."

Predicts Broom Shortage In 1949

Chicago, Dec. 15 — (P) — The National Broom Manufacturers Association predicted a shortage of brooms in 1949.

P. A. Linden Meyer, of Arcola, Ill., association secretary, said the 1948 crop of broom corn—which can be used for nothing but brooms—was the third lowest in history. And the 1947 crop, he said, was the fifth lowest.

"This all adds up to about a third less brooms," he said. "Our normal domestic production is 50,000,000 brooms. This uses 42,350 tons of corn. But we will have between 33,000 and 34,000 tons available."

AUSTRIANS RAP MILITARY TOYS

Vienna — (P) — An appeal to the people of Vienna, asking them not to buy "military" toys for their children this Christmas has been made by Lord Mayor Dr. Theodor Koerner and representatives of the three Austrian political parties.

The appeal referred to the misery suffered by the victims of the last war and asked the population not to "plant the seed of future misery in the souls of our children."

Cass Farmers Advocate Repeal Of 'Flexible' Price Support Laws

By the Journal Courier Farm Editor
Virginia—Without a dissenting vote, the 850 Cass county farmers who attended the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau held in Virginia Wednesday approved a resolution favoring continuation of the present 90% parity price supports for agricultural commodities.

The resolution was offered by John H. Taylor, an early exponent of organized agriculture and an extensive farmer in the Sangamon Valley community.

Jury Awards $585 To Plaintiff In Auto-Horse Crash

A jury which had heard evidence in the case of Russell K. Blaine, of Peoria against Paul S. Black on this county returned a verdict Wednesday afternoon awarding Blaine damages to the amount of $585.

Blaine had sought damages in the amount of $2,000.

The suit was the result of an automobile accident on Route 67 north of Jacksonville in which it was alleged that Blaine's automobile struck a horse said to have been the property of Mr. Black.

Blaine sought damages for personal injuries and damage to his automobile.

At the conclusion of the Blaine vs. Black case, trial started in the case of Tronia E. Toler, as administrator, vs. Byron Kindred, as administrator. The case resulted from a highway collision in Alexander.

Mrs. Toler is seeking damages for the death of her husband, Cecil, who was killed in an automobile accident in Alexander on Friday evening, March 29. He was a passenger in an automobile driven by Francis Kindred when it crashed into the rear of a transport truck park in Alexander. Kindred died about two and one-half hours later.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys Edward Flynn and Harry G. Story, while the defendant is represented by Attorneys William T. Wilson and John B. Wright.

Jurors selected to try this case are: Nita L. Johnson, Edna Mallison, Ralph F. Woods, Mary E. Tankersley, Otis G. Axe, Ernest D. Viers, Harry H. Bandy, Louise Crabtree, A. J. Barber, Arthur Acom, H. P. DePreitas, Merle Hellivell.

Officers Elected At Medical Staff Dinner Tuesday

At the regular executive staff meeting held Tuesday evening at Our Saviour's hospital, the following officers were elected:

President, Dr. V. T. J. Lenth, secretary, Dr. P. B. Hartley, dean of training school, Dr. A. M. Paisley, board of censors, Dr. V. T. J. Lenth, Dr. Garm Norbury, Dr. P. B. Hartley.

The election followed the annual Christmas dinner for members of the medical staff given by the Sisters of the Holy Cross of the hospital. About 30 doctors attended.

U. S. Will Post 'Keep Out' Order At Eniwetok

Washington, Dec. 15.—(P)—The United States soon will issue a new warning to ships and airplanes to stay far away from its Eniwetok atomic weapons proving grounds.

The present "keep out" order was issued about a year ago, prior to the tests of three atomic weapons last spring. It was worked to cover only the calendar year 1948 and thus expires at midnight December 31.

An atomic energy commission spokesman said that while the new order has not yet been drafted it undoubtedly will be prepared within the next few days.

Eniwetok is in the Marshall island group, about 200 miles west and south of Bikini, where the 1946 "operation crossroads" tests of two bombs against naval vessels were conducted.

Experimenters prefer to explode atomic weapons in the Marshall island area during the spring and early summer. This is because the prevailing winds at that time of year carry the deadly "atomic cloud" out over a portion of the Pacific where there are no inhabited islands and no shipping or air lanes.

Starlings Defeat Rockford, So The 16 Elms Must Go

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 15.—(P)—The Winnebago county board finally broke down today and admitted that man cannot devise anything repulsive enough to scare away birds with objectionable habits.

Fireworks failed. So did stuffed owls. An army of deputies firing shotguns only made more noise than the birds themselves. So the county supervisors decided the only way to rid courthouse square of thousands of starlings and sparrows is to cut down the 16 venerable elms where they roost.

Courthouse square won't be as shady next summer. But it will be quieter and cleaner, the supervisors hope.

Annual Lions Club Christmas Party Held At L.S.B.

The Lions club held its 17th annual Christmas party for the students of the Illinois School for the Blind Wednesday night.

In his welcoming address Superintendent Leo Flood told the Lions that "Christmas, Santa Claus and the Lions club are practically synonymous around here."

The response was given by Lion President O. A. Schuette. He applauded "the fine cooperation of the teachers" who give their time assisting the club by purchasing individual gifts which fit the needs and the desires of the students.

Each of the 250 students received his or her special gift, plus a box of candy from Santa Claus, who arrived with the jingle bells of the Yuletide season. The members of the service club joined with the students in singing a group of Christmas carols.

Meiners and Louis Rodenberg, co-chairman of the Lions sight-saving committee, headed the general committee.

The last of a family of eight children, he was born in Catlin, Ill., on March 28, 1855 to Newton and Sarah Ann Cotty Busby.

In a ceremony held in this city in 1899, he was united in marriage to Laura Fanning.

Propose Extension Of Natural Gas Service In State

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 15.—(P)—The Illinois Commerce Commission said today it would urge Federal Power Commission approval of two natural gas pipeline company applications to extend service in Illinois.

ICC Chairman John Biggs said the state agency would intervene in petitions of Gulfcoast Northern Gas Company and Mississippi River Fuel Corporation.

Biggs said the proposed construction would make natural gas service available to many Illinois cities and villages now unable to obtain it because of their distance from existing lines.

Gulfcoast proposes a 30 inch line from Texas to Chicago at an estimated cost of $119,000,000. Part of the line would be laid along the western side of Illinois.

Mississippi River Fuel seeks to construct a 26 inch line from Belleville to Geneseo or Joliet at an estimated cost of $90,000,000. Its line would follow the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company.

Biggs said the proposals would give Bloomington an "abundance" of natural gas.

Ben Franklin Started All This Xmas Mailing

As patrons flocked to the Jacksonville post office Wednesday to do their Christmas mailing, Postmaster Charles Ator took a few minutes out to talk about the rush that has started, and is found to grow heavier within the next few days.

The conversation also got around to the history of the United States postal delivery service since the first Christmas cards were dispatched by Benjamin Franklin, father of the postal system.

Back in those dim, candle-lit days nearly 200 years ago the hearty colonists were fewer and farther between than cities are today, and mailmen were rare pioneers willing to blaze new trails afoot and on horseback over a comparatively few scattered miles of rugged terrain encompassing the vast routes, Postmaster Ator said.

From that inauspicious start sprung the overland mail as a result of the Gold Rush of '49, followed by the Pony Express in 1860, linking east and west with what was the fastest mail delivery the forefathers of that era could conceive. Then came the railway mail service connecting virtually all crossroads of America.

The next innovation that has brought this nation the world's fastest, modern postal delivery service was the airplane shortly after the turn of the century. Down through the years air mail facilities have expanded to such an extent that today it is commonplace to wing letters and parcels to all parts of the globe.

"In this Air Age," added the postmaster, "the speedier air mail and air parcel post service, which envelopes more than 300,000 route miles of domestic and international airways blanketing every sector of the world, is available from our city at the lowest rates in history."

"When you consider that patrons may still be assured of their greeting cards and packages being delivered in ample time for Christmas by the simple expedient of air mail, whether they be going 500 or 5,000 miles, then the progress made in our postal delivery service is nothing short of phenomenal," Postmaster Ator concluded as he again turned his attention to the deluge of mail.

To the reporter it was apparent that someone had been doing their Christmas mailing early.
